The Scottish Coat of Arms—the Thistle—surmounted by a scroll, on which was inscribed the historic legend

"Nemo me impune latesseit."

The company assembled in the gentlemen's parlor and the adjoining rooms of the Metropolitan at six o'clock. Among the invited guests present were Mr. Sloane, the President of the St. Patrick's Society; Mr. Depeyster Ogden, President of the St. Nicholas; Mr. Williams, Presi-Niblo's Garden, and several others. At about seven o'clock the company was marshalled and marched int banquet room, headed by a Scotch piper, in full rational costume, bonnet, kilt, tartars and all. The grand dining room of the Metropolitan was allotted to the Andrew's Society, the endinary guests of the house ing in the row on the lower floer. The banquet room a tastfully decorated. At the head was an illuminated inting of St. Andrew, with the legend—

"Relieve the distressed."

"Relieve the distressed."

"Relieve the distressed."

"Relieve the distressed."

"This was draped with the American, St George's, and St Andrew's flags. The sides and foot of the room were also tastefully hung, and among the ornamental confectionery on the table were representations of Holyrood Falace, and the Castle of Elin burgh the Highlander, with views of Burn." Monument, and Stanly Cast. e. The banquet was served up in a style reflecting sredit on the Messry. Lesland, and the fare comprised the national rich of haggis, for which a Scotch cook was specially engaged.

When the guests had taken their places grane was said by the Rev. Dr. Madeled, Mr. Adam Norrie presiding. In the interval between the courses the piper marched around the room, playing a series of national as on his instrument, and awakening much enthusiasm among his compatrions. A portion of Dodworth's Band was also in attendance, and executed several popular and appropriate pieces of music, leading off with "The Gluers of the society for the year are:—Adam Norrie, Fresident.

NewPort, R I., Nov. 28, 1853
The Trial of the Morgans—Matters and Things in Newport. We reached this very antiquated town a few days age. The event which seems to excite most interest here at present is the assembling of the Court of Common Pleas which holds its first sitting this afternoon—Judge

W. R. Staples presiding.

Among the cases to be tried is a civil suit, commenced by Mr. Hone against W. R. Morgan and brother, for an assault upon him in this place, during the month of September last, with the particulars of which your of September last, with the particulars of which your readers are already familiar.

The criminal suit against the same parties for assault and battery will be heard during the same session. Mr. Hone the plaintiff, is new here; he lays his damages at $20.000. W. R. Morgan is expected by to night's boat he having returned from Europe to meet his tria.

The counsel for the plaintiff are Messra. Potter, Sheffeld and Perry. Henry T. Cranston & Sos, with Messra. Ames and Payne, have been retained for the defence.

The Court of Common Pleas commenced its sittings at the State House this morning. Judge Staples' charge particular that portion of it which relates to the establishment of a House of Reform which would furnish a prison house for juvenile and less hardened delinquents, and be more exclusively under the entire direction of the State than the one now existing in Providence. In the aftermoon the Grand Jury came into court with an indistment against W. R. Morgan and brother, for their assault upon against W. R. Morgan and brother, for their assault upon Mr. Isaac Hone, during the month of September last. The Court gave the parties until 9 A. M. to-morrow to prepare for their trial, at which time they will be arraigned. Both the plaintiff and defendants, with their respective counsel are in the city. The Morgans are stopping at the Aqueduct House. The Court this morning sentenced a poor fellow, one Asher, who keeps a grocery store, and has, perhaps, retailed a few gaikus of liquor, to ten days impris nument and $100 fine; at least, the jury found him guilty, and such is the penalty. An individual bought several glasses of some thing stronger than water, had it chelked up upon the venter's door, and scratched it ent with a six shilling piece. All of which went most conclusively to prove that the unlucky grocery man had violated the Rhode Island Maine Liquer law. O' Consistency, thou jewel!" Twenty men have sold liquor, brandy smashes, cocktails, and cobblers, openly and above board, to the frequenters of this modern Moab day after day; yet all have escaped unscathed except Asher who falls a victim to a personal misuederstanding and the dignity of law.

Newporr, Nov. 30, 1853.

The Morgans have plead guilty to the assault upon Mr. Hone. The case will be continued this afternoon.

The Board met at noon on Tuesday. The returns from the Teentieth ward, which had been sent back for correction, were received as corrected. Alderman Oakley commenced to canvass the State and county ticket of the Fourth ward; when Mr. McKnox, counsel for Patrick H. Maguire, presented the following counsel for Patrick H. Maguire, presented the following protest:

New York. Nov. 15, 1833.

To the Board of County Canvassers of the City and County of New York:

To the Board of County Canvassers of the City and County of New York:

Gentlement protest against the Board canvassing the votes given in the Fourth district of the Fourth ward of the city of New York, for members of Assembly, on the ground that the impactors of the election in that district at the closing of the polion on the night of the 8th instant, counted the tallois, and declared that Daniel W. Clark received 18 votes for members of Assembly; Patrick H. Maguire, seventy-two votes, and Philip J. Downer measy one votes, and declared openly the results, On the nack morning recount dithe ballots, (which had remained exposed in the box during the sale of the county of the sale of the s house No. 1 Dover street, where, on the evening of elec-tion day, the inspectors counted the ballots, and de-clared that Mr. Maguire had a majority. They left the ballot box opes all night is said house, and the day fol-lowing counted again, when they declared that Mr. Clark lowing counted again, who they declared that Mr. Clark was elected. He contended that these proceedings were illegal, and thought it was the duty of the County Canvasters not to receive the returns in their present state, so far as the Assembly was concerned. Basides the inspectors have not, as they are compelled to do according to law, attached a copy of the ticket for the different candidates to the returns.

Aldermen Warn and Dommer remarked that this subject be postpored until a full board or a majority thereof, be present. There being only four members then present, they thought it would be better not to proceed further.

Alderman Oakser differed with them, and whiled to proceed with his canvass eithout interruption, and that seen, they thought it would be better not to proceed further.

Alterman Oarlar differed with them, and wished to proceed with his canvass without interruption, and that the returns of the inspectors should be received as made. If the inspectors declared wrongly this it would have to be sattled in the Assembly. The affidarit setting forth the details of the alleged illegalities was, by request of Mr. Clark, the opposing candidate, who was present, and the canvassers, placed in the custody of the clerk as its publication a one, without counter affiliavits, might be injurious to Mr. Clark.

Mr. McKnox remarked that if affidavits be received from the other side that a cay be set for their reception and for the discussion of the subject. The Soard would not set a day, but were willing to hear the parties when they were ready. Mr Clark who is a lawyer and acted for himself, protested against the affidavit being filed, and thought the proceedings on the other side irregular. The Bard reserved the documents, and Alderman Oakley read off all the figures on the return to the clerk, when, through Mr. McKeon moved that the returns be sent back to the inspectors, that they might attach to them a ricket of soch candidate. But their ability to do this legally be assemed to doubt, as such tickets were not now to be had.

Alderman DOMENT contended that the counsel had no right to make a motion in the board.

Alderman DOMENT contended that the counsel had no right to make a motion in the board.

Alderman bought resume the fifth district of this ward, and the document was sent back to the election in spectors for correction. The Nineteenth ward returns were canvassed by Alderman Bonerty. No errors were discovered in them.

The Board adjourned to zoon to-day.

Festerday the examination of witnesses was continued before Justice Staart, in the alleged election fraud committed in the Freentest ward, on the last election. The following is the evidence:—

Naw York Society with the Brilley of Wildows and OrPasse of Medical Med.—The eleventh annual meeting of this association was held yestering afternoon, in the Grouby street Medical Gollege. There were none present but members, of whom about twenty five atlanded. The business consisted chiefy of the reading of the Treamier's report and the election of officers. Dr. James Arderson presided, and Dr. J. W. G. Clements officiated as Secretary. After the reading of the minutes, the Secretary read a letter from Dr James C. Elias, the Prasident during the past year, declining a re election. The election for officers was next held, with the following result:—

suit — President—Dr. Isaac Wood. Vita Fresidents—Jampa Anderson, G. F. Cammann, H. D. Sulaley. Treasurer—E. L. Beadle. Managers—O. White, J. Watton, E. Dela. field, S. T. Rubuari, Thomas Ward, J. C. Bliss, A. C.

Post.
The number of managers is twenty-one, seven of whom go out every year. The three following were subsequently elected to fill vacencies:—J. M. Melstead, G. Carter, and S. P. White. From the Treasurer's report for the past year it appears that the fund of the society for the present time amounts to $14,789, which was received from the following sources:—

Amount received from annual subscribers... $5,692 00 Mile members... $3,492 35

After the reading of the foregoing report, the meeting adjourned.

Mona about the Weather.—Can too which he said in praise of such delightful days as that was yesterlay? The dying hours of fail and the connecting link between autumn and winter. Overcoats were numbersome and use less all day long, as they have been for some weeks past, making the business of the tail-re dull indeed. Early in the morning the sun looked down with unobstructed gazs upon all sublumary things, and sent its invigorating warmth even to the heart of all objects, animate or in a imate. Invalids who have long since settled themselves down into winter quarters, looking to ward to the present time with a dreadful anticipation of frozen sleet and howling winds, yesterday peeped from their chambers or ventured upon the streets, to drink, for a time, the glorious sunchine, which they felt to be the best panasea for all the "ills that flesh is heir to." Some are disposed to think that the clerk of the weather has made some mittake in his reckoning of the seasons, and intends shipping winter and rushing in at once smilling spring, I aden with fruits and flowers. At present nature seems to favor such a conclusion.

Another Arrest of Yanker Schlivan—A Point of Honoz.

—Yankee Sellivan, having been defeated on a point of 'fancy' law, was then arrested for violoting the law of Massachusetts To this he gave bail and came on to New York, willing to forfest the recognizance rather than go to 'durance vile.' He was, ho ever, again arrested a day or two since by the sherill of Weschester county for breaking his parole of bonor, which he gave whee pardonal for a farmer prize fight. An application was made before Judge Edward yesterday for a writ of habeasporpus which was granted, and Yaukee Sullivan will be brought before the court to answer for violating his parole.

Suspicion of Four Play — A very great mystery exists in connection with a young gentleman from Poughkeepsie, who visited our city a short time since, and left his friends to return home, but has not arrived there, or been heard of since. The following advertisement, inserted in the Hemain at two or three different times, has not had the effect of clearing up the mystery:—
